

End of IT, or a new beginning?

SOMAPIKA DUTTA

BSc(hons) in Physiology

Email-id: arghya992@gmail.com

Fallen out of love? Hm hm? Answer might be 'Yes, like many times!' But you don't fall out of 'LOVE', If You do, it's not love

Yes, she used to think that she is falling out of Love every time, But no, She fell Out of 'Infatuations' which she over thought as Love.

How many times? Let's see, 4? Or maybe 5? And every time that happened, she went into deep lonely MODE thinking Love wasn't meant for her!

But she didn't realise that those feelings weren't Love just mere attractions, mental attachments, in short, Infatuations!

Her peers were equally culprit in those situations, made her believe in those emotions, and as a result 'HEARTBREAK' but they were the only ones there besides her saying, "Chor na yaar! Tere layak nahi tha"

And every time after getting over those small heartbreaks n realisation, she would decide not to fall for anybody and with God's grace she again did fall.

But after all these hitches n infatuations, one fine day she saw someone! Someone who was totally different, she stood there still for she was awestruck, her heart started pacing so fast

Yes, she did have a crush! A huge one! But this time it wasn't just an infatuation, because this time her Eyes didn't find him all the way through for He was in her heart She did miss Him, but then the other moment, those small sweet memories with him, she relived them .

She knew that this time Her feelings were solely that Pure Feeling Of Love and this time She knew it because this time she wasn't afraid of Her heartbreak, She only wanted to enjoy this first feeling of being in Love and Start A fresh and New Beginning.